From the Editor's Desk . . .

WHETHER YOUR postman rings once or twice we hope you'll give him your usual cheery greeting and that the letter he hands you from the Ohio University Fund will be carefully and sympathetically read. After reading the communication we hope you'll find it in your heart and within your means to make a contribution—large or small—to the 1947 Fund for which the books will be closed on December 31.

The Fund slogan is "Not WHAT You Give, But THAT You Give." An increase in the number of individual contributors over last year seems certain. Fund officers are hoping that the sum total of gifts will be correspondingly larger than the figure reported last spring. Contributions made prior to December 31 will be deductible from 1947 Federal Income Tax returns.

The objects of the Fund are fairly well known to Ohio University alumni and will not be reviewed at this time. It should be pointed out, however, that in these days of high costs university budgets are severely pinched, and that those which come from legislative appropriations, and therefore have to be spent in accordance with legislative restrictions and earmarkings, leave little in the way of "free funds" which can be used at the discretion of university officials in scores of helpful ways. It was to make available free funds for such objects as the encouragement of scholarship and the development of cultural and intellectual interests on the part of undergraduates, student aid, faculty research, and the purchase of books for the library and of otherwise unobtainable equipment for laboratories and classrooms that the Ohio University Fund was established.

The money problems of colleges and universities generally have been summed up graphically in the following paragraphs by Bernard P. Taylor, of Illinois Institute of Technology, who is Director for Funds of the American Alumni Council.

"It has been estimated by the department of higher education of the National Education Association that the total enrollment in American colleges will reach over three million by 1960, or double the number of students enrolled in the peak pre-war enlistment in 1939-40. This estimate takes into consideration the diminishing enrollment of veterans. What this means in the expansion of capital outlay for physical plant and funds for operation and maintenance is astronomical. Lloyd Morey, comptroller of the University of Illinois, estimates the immediate needs for physical expansion in our colleges and universities amounts to approximately three billion 300 million dollars, and an additional expenditure of eight billion 800 million dollars will be needed between now and 1960 if the enrollment figures continue to rise as expected. At this rate, he points out, we would have an educational plant valued at present costs of about 20 billion dollars for all the higher education in this country.

"Turning to the question of operating expenses, the picture proportionately is just as colossal. W. Emerson Reck of Colgate, in a recent article drawn from a sampling survey, points out that the total expenses of colleges and universities have increased 52% since 1941. If this percentage prevails, we are now spending $870,000,000 annually in all institutions of higher learning. At that, we are faced with the necessity of raising academic salaries by as much as $218,000,000 to put our salaries on a level with other non-academic schedules. Add another fifty million for replacement and maintenance, and you find our present needs aggregate one billion 138 million dollars, but for the 1960 enrollment, two billion dollars a year will be needed.

"If half of the sum needed came from private sources, individuals, and corporations, it would take twice as much as has been given to all charitable institutions in the United States for the entire period from 1920 through 1943, according to statistics assembled by John Price Jones in his 'Yearbook of Philanthropy.'"

Cutler Hall Rededication Program

ADDRESSES BY Governor Thomas J. Herbert and President John C. Baker and the announcement of the winners in the state-wide Ohio History, Ohio Government, and Citizenship Contest sponsored by the university featured the formal rededication exercises and brought to a close on Sunday, October 19, a two-day program of events and ceremonies arranged to celebrate the opening of the newly restored Cutler Hall.

Condemned several years ago for all but limited uses because of structural weaknesses that had developed during its almost one and one-third centuries of use, Cutler Hall, oldest of all college buildings in the Northwest Territory, was completely rehabilitated at a cost of $150,000. The work included the reinforcement and fireproofing of all floors, a new roof, and a restoration of certain architectural lines which had been changed in the 1880's. For both interior and exterior beauty the building now has few rivals among the nation's early-day educational shrines.

Although once dedicated to the purposes of higher education, the completion of the work of restoration and preservation was regarded as a fitting occasion for a rededication of the historic structure.

In his address Governor Herbert paid tribute to Manasseh Cutler and "the other early pioneers who possessed the vision and the courage to establish a new government and a new university in what then was a wilderness."

The governor declared, however, that citizens and colleges must combat apathy toward government so as to eliminate the danger of completing an historical cycle from bondage through liberty and abundance to apathy and back to bondage.

President Baker said on behalf of the faculty and student body and "of all those who stand for law and order, or freedom and fairness for truth and right principles, we in reverence and meekness rededicate ourselves and this university to the great principles of our forefathers and to serving mankind in the days ahead."

Contest Winners

Wilma Lea Steele, Hamilton, daughter of Elza J. Steele, '22, a teacher in Hamilton High School, was awarded the first prize, $100, in the history contest, the final examination of which was taken Saturday morning, Oct. 18, in the large lecture room of the new Chemistry Building by 108 preliminary winners. More than 5,100 high school students in 77 of Ohio's 88 counties took the preliminary examination.

Second prize in the contest finals, $50, went to Donald Cooper, Columbus, and third prize, $25, to Cletus Moorman of St. Henry. Prizes of ten dollars each were awarded to the fourth to tenth place winners: Jean Marie Snyder, Ada; Miriam Bouic, Marysville; Gladys Cool, Arcanum; Mary Jane Vandervart, Franklin; Robert Hettrick, Mt. Healthy; Jack Buchheit, Wooster; and Patricia Ann Motter, Ada.

The formal rededication ceremonies were held in front of Cutler Hall at two o'clock Sunday afternoon, following a thirty-minute program of chimes music. There was an estimated attendance of 3,000 persons; with special guests, including 21 descendants of Manasseh Cutler, seated in front of the speakers' stand.

On the specially constructed platform were the governor, the president of the university, members of the board of trustees, the chaplain-of-the-day, and the chairman of the rededication committee.

Signalling the appearance of the governor a 19-gun salute was fired by two 75-mm. cannon from a position near the Soldiers' Monument on the campus. The guns and crews were provided by the 174th Field Artillery Battalion, O.N.G., of Columbus.

The salute was followed by a flag raising ceremony in which the present national ensign was unfurled along with a replica of the flag in use at the time of Ohio University's founding.

The invocation and the benediction were given by the Rev. Robert E. Leake, '31, rector of St. Alban's Episcopal Church, Bexley.

President's Address

In his address President Baker expressed the opinion that the most important part of the entire Cutler Hall Rededication ceremony had been "the effort to impress on high school students by means of competitive examinations the history, government and traditions of Ohio."

"It is these students—the leaders of the future—who should know well our cherished past," he added.

Saying that in years past it may have appeared that Ohio University had forgotten Manasseh Cutler, Rufus Putnam, Jacob Lindley and other founders and friends, Dr. Baker stated, "They may well have been discouraged about the fate of 'their' university which they hoped would be one of the most flourishing in this country."

"Such concern was ill-founded even in the darkest days, for they should have remembered that there are few human institutions more enduring than a university."

During his address the president accepted in the name of the trustees two portraits, one of Cutler and the other of Lindley, first president of the university, to be hung in Cutler Hall.

Turning from the past to the present and the objectives of Ohio University, the president declared that "the change from that time to this so far as world conditions are concerned is not so great as one might imagine. The United States had a new frontier then—the West; today its new frontier is the world."

"However," he pointed out, "at the close of the 18th century we were blessed with numerous great leaders such as Jefferson, Madison, Hamilton and Marshall, but today, and it is a tragic difference, these leaders are not in view."

"Either we have them," he asserted, "and don't give them a chance to serve or we are not training them."

In answer to the question, "What kind of education must university students receive today if they and this nation are to prosper?", Dr. Baker listed these points:

1. Universities must inspire and develop consecrated leaders. In addition, we must educate an understanding citizenry capable of supporting and benefitting from such leaders.

2. An over-all function of a university is to train its students to think, to be curious, to turn the page to see what is on the other side, to be independent.

3. Universities today must encourage the study of international and economic affairs.

4. Universities must encourage research and teach more about human beings, human motivation, and why human beings do or do not live together in harmony.

5. Universities must stress an understanding of the significance of a free society and the workings of representative government.

6. Universities must continue to give professional and vocational training to all who want it.

Governor's Address

In paying tribute to Cutler, Governor Herbert outlined "historical facts which justify the conclusion that Manasseh Cutler was one of the greatest personalities to influence the development of Ohio and thereby earn the undying gratitude of a grateful people."

In brief, these facts are that:

1. The Ordinance of 1787 was enacted by the Congress of the Confederation meeting in New York at exactly the same time the Constitutional Convention was writing the Constitution of the United States in Philadelphia.

2. The man most responsible for the series of events which resulted in the Constitution of the U. S. was

George Washington. The man most responsible for the enactment of the Ordinance of 1787 was Manasseh Cutler.

3. Ohio enjoys the unique distinction of being the first sovereign state organized under a free government.

4. Ohio University became the first institution of higher learning in the Northwest Territory because Cutler competent become selfish, luxury loving and complacent; the incompetent and the unfortunate grow envious and covetous; and all three groups turn aside from the hard road of freedom to worship the Golden Calf of economic security. The historical cycle seems to be: from bondage to spiritual faith; from spiritual faith to courage; from courage to liberty; from liberty to abundance; from abundance to selfishness to apathy; from apathy to dependency; and from dependency back to bondage once more."

George Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, was quoted by Governor Herbert as follows:

"In America—the greatest democracy in the world, with the best educated electorate—the proportion of citizens who take the trouble to vote is lower than in any other real democracy."

Commenting upon this lack of interest in governmental affairs, Mr. Gallup said:

"Our schools and colleges fail to give students even a rudimentary knowledge of the workings of their government, and fail to arouse interest in public affairs. You can graduate from college—and many do—without knowing that we have national elections every two years. In January of last year only 31 per cent of all voters knew that elections were going to be held in November for Congress. One-third of all citizens with college training do not know the number of years for which a Representative is elected. Only four voters out of ten, can name both senators from their own state; only half can give the name of their representative in Congress. I hesitate to place all the blame for this lack of information upon the schools and colleges. Yet, I think something must be seriously wrong with a form of education which permits this situation to exist."

The governor then declared that "Democracy is not of much force if we give only lip-service to it. Education fails in one of its most import-insisted that the Ordinance of 1787 contain a provision that public land be dedicated and held in trust to be used for that purpose.

After asking "How well are we guarding our invaluable heritage?" the governor quoted a speaker who had described what he called an historical cycle. Said the speaker:

"Paradoxically enough, the release of initiative and enterprise made possible by popular self-government ultimately generates disintegrating forces from within. Again and again, after freedom has brought opportunity and some degree of plenty, the ant missions when its graduates go out with a disdain for public service and those who participate in it. While colleges and universities are justified in avoiding the appearance of taking stands on controversial issues and on public policies, they are never justified in causing the students to believe that they also must refrain from personal decisions on public issues.

"I am greatly impressed by and desire to commend Ohio University for its sponsorship of this contest among Ohio high school students. I hope it will be continued annually and I am certain that it will inspire greater interest in government."

The governor concluded his address with a statement to the students in his audience.

"To all of the students here today," he said, "I should like to say that you have a very definite obligation when you return to your local communities. That obligation is to expand your normal activities to include a deep and active interest in civic affairs, in the workings of your local, state, and national government and in the securing of a lasting peace. You who have benefited by the generosity of the people of this great state will not have discharged your full obligation until you have devoted a portion of your time to the perpetuation of the government which makes you free. Do that and you will have fulfilled the high hopes of Manasseh Cutler."

The Portraits

The portrait of Manasseh Cutler accepted by President Baker in his rededication address was painted by Howard Chandler Christy from a Frothingham original now in possession of Miss Elizabeth Poole, a Cutler descendant, of Marblehead, Mass. It will hang in the office of the president, which will be known as the Cutler Room.

Accepted at the same time was a portrait of Jacob Lindley, first president of Ohio University, as a gift from several members of the Lindley family. It was painted by Ada Rosario Cecere, New York City, upon commission by Dr. Anna Pearl McVay, '92, Athens.

Besides Miss McVay, others whose names were associated with the Lindley gift were: William O. Lindley, Altadena, Calif.; Mrs. Floride Lindley Sprague, Chauncey; Dr. Lenora Sprague Stack, '18, Athens; Dr. Clarence Lindley Jones, '93x, Athens; Dr. Lindley V. Sprague, '21, Madison, Wis.; Mrs. Floride Sprague Britton, '31, Brooklyn, N. Y.;

Contest Questions

The governor, the state director of education, and the director of the Ohio State Archeological and Historical Society were invited to submit one essay-type question each to make up the final examination in a state-wide contest designed to "increase the awareness of high school students of the rich cultural heritage of Ohio."

Of the 108 students qualifying for the final examination out of the more than 5,100 who took the preliminary test every one came to the campus on October 18, a remarkable and, to the university, a very gratifying record.

Invaluable assistance was given the Ohio University committee in charge of the history contest by Dr. Ray G. Wood of the Division of Scholarship Testing of the State Department of Education.

The grading of the contest papers was handled by two panels of Ohio University faculty members and a final panel of judges made up of Dr. Francis P. Weisenburger, professor of history, Ohio State University; Dr. James H. Rodabaugh, editor and historian for the Ohio State Archeological and Historical Society; and Mr. Ben A. Moore, representing the State Department of Education.

Money for the contest prizes was provided by the Ohio University Fund.

The Saturday program included a formal military review of the R. O. T. C. units; a football game in which the Ohio University "Bobkittens" defeated the freshman team, 7-6; a cross country track meet of teams representing Butler, Western Reserve and Ohio University; a musical pageant in Alumni Memorial Auditorium; and dances at the Men's Gymnasium and the Women's Gymnasium.

Musical Pageant

The "Musical Pageant, Embracing the History of Ohio University in Song" was presented to an audience of almost 3,000 persons by a 120-voice group made up of the Women's Glee Club, under the direction of Prof. C. C. Robinson, and the Men's Glee Club, under the direction of Assistant Professor Philip L. Peterson. Numbers were sung by the clubs, individually, and also as a choral ensemble. Narration, which tied together songs typical of various periods in the university's history, was offered by Prof. C. N. Mackinnon.

New Year of Activities Under Way

WHAT promises to be one of the most successful years in the history of organized alumni activities is well under way. Besides the functioning of the "old faithfuls," the year will be marked by a reactivation of a number of chapters that have been dormant since the war years and the establishment of several new local groups.

Cleveland

The initial activity of the current year was the dinner meeting of the Cleveland Bobcat Club at the Cleveland Athletic Club on Sept. 23. Athletic Director Don C. Peden was the speaker of the occasion. He was accompanied to the big city on the lake by Richard P. Banks, '43, owner of the Banks Sport Shop in Athens and son of a one-time Bobcat football coach, Mark Beal Banks. William R. Merkel, '41, is the club president, and Robert L. Hartford, '36, secretary.

The Cleveland men, with the cooperation of the Ohio University Women's Club of Cleveland, sponsored a dance (see picture) at Park Lane Villa, Park Lane & 105th Street, on Oct. 11, following the Ohio-Western Reserve football game. With an attendance of more than 400 persons, including a large number of students on their annual Migration Day trip, the dance was both a social and financial success.

On Nov. 18, the Bobcats will have as their guests from Athens several members of the group of professors emeriti, men now retired from active teaching with an honorary rank and status.

The Ohio University Women's Club opened its 1947-48 program of seven scheduled meetings with an exceptionally well attended luncheon at Higbee's Lounge on Sept. 20. Purely feminine entertainment was provided by a leading Cleveland cosmetologist who discussed "Hair Styling." Several of the members received free attractive coiffures during the lecture demonstration. The current president and secretary are, respectively, Blanche Robinson, '16, and Eleanor Morrow, '33.

At a luncheon scheduled for Nov. 8, the Cleveland women will hear Mrs. J. C. Walker discuss, "Inexpensive Decorations in the Home for Thanksgiving and Christmas."

Youngstown

The opening event for the Ohio University Women's Club of Youngstown was a picnic, Sept. 27, at Homestead Park. The picnic committee was headed by Mrs. Frank Dustman (Inez Tavenner, '25, 2-yr.). The club president is Gertrude Starr, alumnae groups, convenes every month during the school year. On Oct. 14, the club met at the home of Martha Cole, '39, with Marcella Long, '34, A.M. '38, as assisting hostess. Mrs. Lee Eiler (Frieda Morel, '21, 2-yr.) and Mrs. Charles Irwin (Marjorie Emrick, '39) are the president and secretary of the organization.

A "Kick-off Dinner" will be held by the general alumni chapter (both men and women) on Friday night, Nov. 14, the eve of the Dayton-Ohio football game in the Gem City. The guest list will include Athletic Director Don C. Peden, Head Coach Harold Wise, '28; Prof. Neil D. Thomas, '22, official gridiron movie man, who will show some of his pictures; George A. Banks, '29, and the Alumni Secretary. The Dayton chapter is headed by Dean E. Baesel, '42, who is supported by Lois Hook, '41, as secretary.

Columbus

The first "official" meeting of the new Columbus Bobcat Club was held Oct. 15, at the Seneca Hotel. It was attended by 75 men of the state's capital city who heard Mac Sauer, '24x, well-known Leesburg newspaper editor and humorist, as principal speaker of the occasion. Don Peden, Harold Wise, and Bob Wren, '43, former Bobcat baseball star and professional league player, were other guests. The president and secretary of this men's group are Carlisle O. Dollings, '25, and Earl "Mooney" Duvall, '24x.

Akron

The editor regrets that the yearbook of the Ohio University Women's Club of Akron sent to him by an officer of the club could not be found at the time of preparing this report and that the affairs of this active alumnae organization will have to go unheralded until the next issue.

Plans for activities in a number of other alumni chapters are in the process of formation and will be announced to members of the groups in due season.

Cleveland Alumni Hold Dance at Park Lane Villa

'39, while the secretary is Marian Wiles, '31.

The second get-together, to be held on Nov. 22, will be under the committee chairmanship of Mrs. Harold Doyle, '13, 2-yr. John Carney, of the Inter-Group Goodwill Council, will be the speaker.

A smoker will be held Thursday night, Nov. 13, at the Ohio Hotel by the men of the newly-organized Youngstown Bobcat Club. Dean of Men Maurel Hunkins will speak briefly and informally, and motion pictures, in color, of the Butler-Ohio football game will be shown by Alumni Secretary Clark Williams. David H. Howland, '21, is temporary president of the Bobcats and Delbert L. Kehl, '32, secretary.

Miss Cable Congratulated On Long Service Record

Staff members of the psychology department and other friends at Ohio University are congratulating Julia L. Cable, '19, these days upon twenty-five years of highly valued service as an assistant in psychology. Her association with the university covers a wider span, however, since for the first three years after graduation she was alumni stenographer to the late Dr. C. L. Martzloff, '07, M.Ped. '09, who was alumni secretary as well as professor of history at his alma mater.

Of her work a departmental colleague has written the following:

"Over the years Miss Cable has performed a great variety of services for the Department of Psychology. Until Dr. James P. Porter retired and disposed of the Journal of Applied Psychology, she assisted him with the editing and managing of that publication. She has, until recently, had virtual direction of the administering of psychological tests to entering students, and has consulted with hundreds, if not indeed thousands, of students concerning the

in this department for well over twenty years, and they like to drop in to see her whenever they are in Athens. Always courteous and pleasant in her social and professional relations, she has endeared herself to all who have been associated with her. If her outstanding characteristic were to be summarized in a single word, the word would be 'helpful'."

Cutler Hall Rededication Program Is Well Attended

The group of songs typifying the "Modern Era" included the two prize winners in the Founders' Song competition sponsored by Arthur C. Johnson, '95x, Columbus, and described in the October Alumnus. These songs were "Founders' Song" by Charles D. Giaouque and "Old Manassch Cutler" by Carr Liggett, '16, Cleveland, and Prof. Mackinnon. Mr. Liggett was present to play the accompaniment for his song.

Air Programs

Ten Ohio radio stations carried the story of Ohio University's founding and historical background in a 15-minute program, "The Ohio Story," sponsored by the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. The script was written by Frank Seidel, who wrote the scripts for such outstanding network programs as "Cavalcade of America," "First Nighter," and "Magazine of the Air." The narrator of "The Ohio Story" program was Robert Waldrop, a story teller whose "Treasury Salute" series for the War Finance division of the Treasury Department was broadcast over a network of more than 1,000 stations.

Fred Waring and his well-known "Pennsylvanians" also honored the university with a salute over an NBC hook-up on the week-end of the rededication activities. Marvin W. Long, '33, is a soloist and musical arranger with this popular group.

Descriptions of the exhibit of early-American paintings loaned to Ohio University for the period of the Cutler Hall Celebration by New York City's famed Metropolitan Art Museum, the window displays of Court Street merchants, the gift of General Charles G. Dawes, the gift of lights for the illumination of the Cutler Hall tower by Grosvenor S. McKee, '16, and other events and features of the rededication program will appear in the December Alumnus.

Cutler Committee Headed By Prof. Vincent Jukes

Vincent J. Jukes, '30, whose enthusiasm and unremitting efforts as general chairman of the Cutler Hall Rededication Committee were large factors in the success of the recent celebration, is associate professor of dramatic art and speech.

During his student days he was an assistant in dramatics, and immediately upon the receipt of his degree was appointed to an instructorship. He was advanced to the rank of assistant professor in 1940, and to his present position earlier this year.

Prof. Jukes was awarded a master's degree by Western Reserve University in 1938, and, in 1940-41, attended the University of Michigan on a National Theatre Conference Fellowship. He was a lieutenant in the Navy during the war, serving in the States and in the Aleutians.

For many years technical director of the Ohio University Theatre, his supervisory talents are now being given to the university's radio station, WOUN, and its rapidly developing programs. During the past summer he served as radio director of the College Division (sponsored by the University of Michigan) of the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Mich.

On and About the Campus . . .

IN THE Post-Civil War episode depicted in the Musical Pageant, one of the highlights of the Cutler Hall Rededication Program, Margaret Boyd, Ohio University's first woman graduate was impersonated by Arden Smith (see picture), a Youngstown freshman. Miss Smith, wearing a copy of a dress once worn by her distinguished campus predecessor, was serenaded with the song, "When You and I were Young, Maggie," by the combined glee clubs and four soloists, described by Narrator Mackinnon as "four wolfish males of the day." Whether in accordance with fact or not, one of the young men, in a role played by Clayton Riley, Parma, was rewarded with an approving smile by the fair Maggie. The others, Sidney Claunch, Dayton, and Norman Crabtree, Jackson, in the picture, and Frank Rocco, Athens (not shown), were quite obviously unsuccessful in their efforts to impress the first co-ed.

AN EXHIBIT that attracted the attention of many visitors to the President's Office (the Cutler Room) in Cutler Hall during the recent rededication weekend, was a collection of books written or co-authored by members of the Ohio University faculty. Prof. Raymer McQuiston, who gathered together the books for the exhibit, states that the collection is to be a permanent one, and that the works of former members of the faculty as well as of the current staff are desired. It is hoped that former faculty men and women whose eyes may fall upon these lines will give to the university copies of any writings (books, monographs, etc.) that they may have published.

THE EXECUTIVE Committee of the University has recently approved a recommendation of the Faculty Advisory Council on Penalty for Student Dishonesty which reads as follows: "Ohio University will tolerate no cheating. Any student who is guilty of cheating or plagiarism in any form (this includes cheating on quizzes, examinations, or any form of written work in the classroom, or the submission of written work produced outside the classroom which is not entirely his own composition) will automatically be given an F in the course and dropped from the course immediately."

The Executive Committee also approved stipulations to the effect that "nothing in the above ruling was to limit additional punishment by the interesting history. Succeeding generations of students who come to the University with varying backgrounds and social interests should enrich the traditions, social standards, prestige, and reputation of the University. The University expects students to exercise discerning judgment and to be personally responsible for absorbing and complying with the social patterns of the University Community.

"The student body, faculty, and administrative officers, therefore, will employ any reasonable means to control moral indiscretions and social behavior which is in bad taste."

faculty if it is deemed necessary, and that the statement of the university policy concerning cheating should be read at the first meeting of each class."

ANOTHER official action of recent date was the development and approval of "A Statement of Social Policy for Ohio University." The statement, which is the work of a faculty-student committee and has as its purpose the setting of general standards for the social conduct of students, is as follows:

"The students, faculty, and administration of Ohio University and The Community of Athens are united in their interest in maintaining a moral tone and a social pattern that is in keeping with good taste and acceptable social practice anywhere among educated people.

THE OHIO University Theater's current season of four plays will open with George S. Kaufman's three-act drama, "The Late George Apley," on Nov. 4 in Ewing Hall Auditorium. The play will be under the direction of Miss Virginia Hahne, instructor in dramatic art and speech, and will run for five nights. For a reference to the remaining plays, as well as to other programs sponsored by units of the College of Fine Arts, please turn to the back page.

AN expanded title has brought expanded duties to Albert C. Gubitz.

Previously Director, Ohio University Branches (at Portsmouth, Chillicothe, Zanesville) and Professor of Economics, Mr. Gubitz is now Director, Off-Campus Relations and Bureau of Appointments, and Professor of Economics. The added responsibilities are in the field of public relations and the appointments bureau. He will continue to direct the three branch units of the university.

LOUISE ROSE, '43, a Hallgarten Award student at the Juilliard Graduate School of Music in New York City, was guest soloist with the University Symphony Orchestra in a concert in Alumni Memorial Auditorium on October 26. Miss Rose sang "Air de Lia" by Claude Debussy, "Norse Legend" by Frank Bridge, "Miranda" by Richard Hageman, and "The Children" by Sergei Rachmaninoff.

Faculty Ranks Swelled by Newcomers

REPORTED IN the October Alumnus was the coming to the campus this summer and fall of Mr. Thomas A. Gorton, as director of the School of Music; Dr. Claude E. Kantner (see picture), as director of the School of Dramatic Art and Speech; and Col. William H. Speidel, as commandant of the R.O.T.C.

Dr. Kantner, whose academic training and professional background were reviewed in greater detail last month, was speech pathologist at the University of Oregon Medical School, in Portland, for two and one-half years prior to coming to Ohio University last July. He was director of the speech clinic at Louisiana State University from 1935 to 1944, and was a member of the faculty of Stephens College for two years.

Other newcomers to the faculty, either as additions or replacements, include three associate professors, 11 assistant professors, 16 instructors, 12 acting instructors, and two visiting lecturers.

The three new associate professors, with the schools from which they hold degrees shown in parentheses, are: Dr. J. W. Innes (Toronto, Columbia), economics; L. J. Hortin (McKendree, Murray Ky. State), journalism; and John R. Taylor (W. Va., Illinois), finance.

Because of space limitations it will be impossible to report the positions which the new faculty men and women have previously held in their various fields.

Assistant Professors. Gustav Toews (Kansas State), mechanical engineering; Dr. Henri Siebert (Haverford, Johns Hopkins, Illinois), zoology; Dr. Bruce Waters (Kentucky, Ohio State) and E. M. Adams (Richmond, Rochester Divinity), philosophy; Guenther G. Schmalz (Ill. State Normal, Illinois), German; Dr. Maynard B. Neher (Massachusetts, Purdue), chemistry; Raymond H. Gusteson (Morningside, Syracuse), government; Dr. John S. Galbraith (Miami, Iowa), history; Dr. J. A. Leavitt (Oklahoma, Columbia), finance; Dr. Paul R. Murphy (Iowa, Harvard), classical languages; and Carl H. Roberts (Ohio, '27; Columbia), education.

Mr. Roberts (picture later), a former social studies instructor in Athens High School, will be attached to the office of Dean Evan R. Collins. He will do some teaching and will also contact southeastern Ohio schools in connection with educational service projects to be undertaken by the College of Education. A description of these new projects will be published at a later date.

Instructors. Donald E. Perry (Ohio, '40), industrial arts; Mary Virginia Hendrick (Western Ky. State), chemistry; Lurene Brown (Ohio '32, A.M. '36), English; Janet Raymond (Cincinnati), secretarial chology; Mrs. Edwin Payne Caskey (Baylor), Peter T. Van Blarcom (Maryville), Orville T. Chambers (Ohio, '40, A.M. '47), and Mrs. Helen Resina Smith (Ohio, '40), English; Gene K. Henderson (Ohio, '42), Romance languages; Lyman C. Peck (Yale, Chicago), Charles R. McWilliams (Ohio, '47), and D. James Davis (Harvard), mathematics; Thomas W. Ashton (Ohio, '47—not Thomas E., Jr., '44), photography; Mrs. Richard Clayton (Eastman), piano; and William Sheeskey (Ohio, '46), physical welfare.

Visiting Lecturers. Elizabeth Wetzel (Wash. State, Denver), dramatic art and speech; and Mrs. Evelyn Gray Duffey (Olivet), design.

Health Service. To accommodate the record breaking campus enrollment of 5,370 students the Ohio University Health Service has increased its staff, lengthened its hours of service, and added to its facilities. The staff is now made up of four physicians and seven nurses, while outpatient service is available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. Dr. E. Herndon Hudson, director of the Health Service, and Dr. Frank Moore, associate physician, have been joined this year by Dr. Eleanor L. Schmidt, as an associate physician, and Dr. Clarence E. Harco, an assistant physician.

A member of the University of Oklahoma health service staff for 18 years, Dr. Schmidt holds degrees from the University of Missouri and Washington University, St. Louis. Dr. Harco is a graduate of Marietta College and the Hahnemann Medical College, Philadelphia. He has recently been released from the Army Medical Corps.

Irene M. Evans, '44, M.S. '46, technical assistant in bacteriology, is in charge of laboratory facilities, while Virginia Wilson, an instructor in physical welfare who was a commissioned officer and physical therapy aid in the Army's Medical Department, is in charge of a new physiotherapy room which has been set up.

New appointees in the Dean of Men's Office are Charles W. Bullard, '40, as assistant to the dean of men, and Robert D. Regula, '47, as assistant dean of men.

Late President Honored At Cornerstone Laying

AN HONOR long anticipated and coveted for him by his friends, recently was paid the late Dr. Elmer Burritt Bryan, eleventh president of Ohio University, when a university building was named in his honor.

The building chosen to carry the name, Bryan Hall, is the new dormitory now under construction on University Terrace, opposite Alumni Memorial Auditorium. The name was given the rapidly-rising structure during formal ceremonies which marked the laying of the cornerstone on September 17.

The ceremonies, in charge of B. T. Grover, '19, assistant to the president, were opened by President John C. Baker, who quoted from the minutes of a university board of trustees meeting when, on June 16, 1947, the board requested a formal cornerstone laying in honor of President Bryan "for his great contribution to the spiritual, educational, and physical advancement of Ohio University."

Dr. Edwin Watts Chubb, dean emeritus of the College of Arts and Sciences and who succeeded Dr. Bryan, as acting president, read an excerpt from the memorial address that he delivered at the latter's funeral.

Dean Chubb paid tribute to Dr. Bryan's genius "for friendship, for understanding—no one left his presence a stranger—and for his generosity."

Participating in the ceremonies in addition to those named were University Trustees T. R. Biddle, '91, and Gordon K. Bush, '24; George C. Parks, '08, university treasurer; F. L. Woodworth, mayor of the City of Athens; Luverne Lausche, Ohio University's supervising engineer; and Nancy Quackenbush, Berca, and Paul Clark, Lorain, presidents, respectively, of the Women's League and the Men's Union Planning Board, who represented the student body.

When completed, the dormitory will be dedicated with public exercises at which it is expected that members of President Bryan's family will be in attendance.

Sealed into the copper box in the cornerstone were copies of the October, 1934, memorial issue of The Ohio Alumnus, Dean Chubb's address, the resolution of the board of trustees, and other appropriate mementoes.

The dormitory, scheduled for completion in time for the fall term of 1948, will house approximately 190 men students.

Dr. Bryan was a graduate of Indiana University and had pursued post graduate studies at Harvard and Clark universities. Appointed commissioner of education in the Philippine Islands by President Taft following the Spanish-American War, he established and developed much of the educational program that is still being followed in the Islands.

The late president had presided over three institutions of higher learning. In 1905, he was elected president of Franklin College, Indiana, where he remained for three years, going from there to a department chairmanship at his alma mater, Indiana University. In 1909 he was called to the presidency of Colgate University at Hamilton, N. Y. There he served as chief administrative officer for twelve years. In 1921, after searching the entire educational field a committee of the Board of Trustees unanimously offered the Ohio University presidency to the Colgate head. He died in office, Oct. 15, 1934, following a brief illness.

The Bobcat Sports Review

By Bob Finley, '43

THE OHIO University football team, despite three setbacks in the five games played to date, is still looking forward to a winning season. And, in the opinion of many loyal followers, they have the right outlook.

Bulletin: Because of unavoidable delays in publication the appearance of this issue finds the current gridiron season near its end and with little likelihood of a realization of the hopes that Sports Editor Finley seemed warranted in expressing at the time his story was written.—EDITOR

Opening the season against Ohio Northern, the Green and White aggregation took the field under a new coach, in new uniforms, and with practically a new line-up as compared with that of 1946. The locals promptly got off on the right foot under Coach Wise as they handed the invading Polar Bears a rousing 34-0 lacing.

Early in the first quarter, when Chris Stefan, Dayton, threw a 40-yard pass which was caught over the shoulder by Pete Risser, Ashland, the Bobcats scored and were not to be halted throughout the remainder of the fray. Later, touchdowns were added by Howie Schultz, Cleveland, Bob Luecke, Ft. Thomas, Ky., freshman, and twice by Leonard "Duke"

Bitler (see picture), North Olmsted.

Although diminutive in size, both Schultz and Bitler provided the needed spark, what with the absence of last year's All-Ohio halfback, King Brady, benched by cracked ribs. Specializing on quick jaunts through small openings in the line, these two speedsters had the Polar Bear defense in a muddle throughout the afternoon. Bitler is the son of L. O. Bitler, '22, who is associated with the Greater Cleveland Safety Council.

The play of Stefan, particularly on the defense and in the kicking department, was especially brilliant. Handling the quarterback slot on the new "T" formation was Cleveland Stan Szylowski, a sophomore who has the makings of an excellent and accurate spot passer.

At the fullback position, reliable Dick Hodona from the '46 team turned in a spectacular performance. Dick, however, was injured in this game and was not of aid to the squad for a couple of weeks.

The Ohio line appeared rough and ready with such stalwarts as Gene Ruszkowski, Cleveland, and Fred Hall, Lakewood, holding down the tackle berths, and "Zip" Zednik, Cleveland, who was moved from end, and Milt Taylor, Columbus, switched from the backfield, handling the guard positions. These men all saw line service last year.

Coach Wise has real "finds" in two ends—Pete Risser, Ashland, and Johnny Marco, Warren. Cleveland's Kenny Weiss, on the defense, and Akron's Tony Laterza on offense, were given the center assignment.

In the second fray, Ohio took the field in their first Mid-American Conference test with the opposition provided by the Butler Bulldogs. Touted as a strong aggregation from the start, the Indians immediately took advantage of a poor Ohio kick and pushed for a touchdown. This 7-0 lead held good for the whole first half. Starting the third quarter the Bobcats, inspired by the passing of Bobby Mills and the broken field running of King Brady, tied the game at 7-7 when Mills flipped a 44-yard pass into the outstretched arms of Brady who waltzed across the remaining ten yards untouched. Sudnick's conversion with Sayre holding was good and it was a new ball game.

After kicking off to Butler, Ohio struck again: this time by rushing. From the Bulldog 43, where Johnny Marco recovered a Butler fumble, Bitler in five straight line plays carried the ball over for a 13-7 lead. Sudnick again converted and Ohio led 14-7; an advantage they held throughout the remainder of the game.

With a record of two wins and no defeats the Bobcats trekked to Cleveland to engage Western Reserve in a Migration Day battle. Going along with the team was an estimated 4,000 Bobcat supporters.

Confident of taking over the Red Cats, since they had dropped their first two games to Duquesne and Rutgers, the Bobcats got off to a great start, when, sparked by Bitler and Brady, they rolled down the field for a quick first quarter T.D. Sudnick converted and with a 7-0 lead it looked like another Green and White victory... to everyone except Western Reserve. Then it happened. In the first five minutes of the second half, with Ohio still leading by virtue of their early tally, Reserve came to life and before the boys from Athens caught their breath the score was 20-7 with the Bobcats on the short end. Bobcat fumbles led to the first two Red Cat scores and a blocked kick accounted for the other. Ohio fought back, but the outcome was destined to be decided by those fatal five minutes of the third quarter. This was Ohio's first loss in the Mid-American Conference.

The following week, Coach Wise took his charges to Bowling Green to engage the previously non-victorious Falcons. This time a blocked kick resulted in a safety and a 2-0 setback for the Bobcats. Playing in a constant downpour of rain, the Bobcats outplayed the BG boys from whistle to gun, but lacked the scoring punch to overcome the Falcon 2-0 lead. Ed Sudnick almost saved the day for the Green and White when he attempted a field goal from the BG 18-yard line, but it was just a trifle to the left.

With a record of two and two, the not-so-confident Bobcats journeyed to Oxford to be the guests of "the" annual rivals, the Miami Redskins. Since this was Miami's Homecoming, it presented a chance for the Athens boys to gain revenge for the 23-14 heartbreaker handed them in '46 by the Redskins, which, if you'll remember, was the first Ohio Homecoming loss in the Ohio stadium since its erection in 1929. But it just wasn't to be. For the first time this year, despite the two previous losses, Ohio met a superior ball club. Scoring all their points in the first half, Miami turned back the Bobcats with a 21-0 spanking which made it three losses in a row for the Ohioans.

The Bobcats look forward to meeting in Athens the powerful Bearcats of Cincinnati—in the Homecoming tilt on November 1. Definitely the underdog, Ohio must fall back on her spirit and a surprise attack to defeat this steamrolling team from the Queen City.

The remainder of the 1947 schedule: Nov. 1, Cincinnati (Homecoming), at Athens; Nov. 8, Ohio Wesleyan, at Athens; Nov. 15, Dayton, at Dayton; and Nov. 22, Xavier, at Athens.

Head Basketball Coach William J. "Dutch" Trautwein, who suffered a fractured kneecap while assisting with the instruction of the varsity gridders on Sept. 24, is now able to make occasional visits to the campus after a period of hospitalization in Columbus and of inactivation at home.

IF THE PRESENT won and lost column of the freshman football squad is any indication of the caliber of future Ohio U. football teams, the outlook appears to be bright.

Under the tutelage of Freshman Coach Frank Richey, former Ohio Wesleyan great, the Bobkittens have registered two wins in as many attempts.

Returning to the system of freshman ball instead of the junior varsity elevens, as required by the Mid American Conference, the first year Ohio squad has a schedule of five games including Cincinnati twice, Miami twice, and Rio Grande varsity at Gallipolis.

The Bobkittens got off to a great start as they entertained the Bearkittens from Cincinnati here in Athens, as a feature event of the Cutler Hall Rededication program. They held on to a one-point margin throughout the waning minutes of the game to emerge the winner in a hard fought 7-6 contest. Later, the two teams met again, this time in Cincinnati, and again the Bobkittens took the measure of the Queen City eleven, this time by the score of 14-0.

Outstanding for the first year squad has been McKenna, Morton, Luecke, Savchuk, Stumph, and Ed Guccion in the backfield. On the line Heil, Finnen, DiBaggio, Wentz, Leadingham, Gross, Ostlund, and Zwahlen have carried the load.

VICTORIOUS in two of the three meets held this fall, Ohio University's Cross Country team is looking forward to the possibility of copping the Mid American Conference crown late this month.

Dropping their first meet to Cincinnati by one point, the Bobcat harrriers came back to drop both Butler and Western Reserve in a triangular meet and then travel to Bowling Green and spank the Falcons.

Here and There Among the Alumni

In last month's report of the death of Mrs. L. M. Gillilan (LEIZIE McVAY, '86), the editor referred to Mrs. Gillilan as the twelfth woman graduate of Ohio University. Now, he is called upon to justify his figuring by Mrs. W. A. Hunter (ELEANOR KIRKENDALL), Paso Robles, Calif., a classmate of Mrs. Gillilan who inquires if that makes her "the eleventh or the thirteenth or one-half of the twelfth graduate." The editor will wriggle out of that one by stating that only ten degrees had ever been granted to coeds at Ohio University before that day in June, 1886, when diplomas were handed to both Mrs. Hunter and Mrs. Gillilan, along with three classmates of the male persuasion, one of them her brother, JAMES A. KIRKENDALL. Mrs. Hunter's father, four brothers, and two sisters all attended Ohio University. One of the sisters is Mrs. A. W. Campbell (MARGARET KIRKENDALL, '83) of Boulder, Colo., who is currently the oldest living alumna of the university. Mrs. Hunter married an Ohioan, WILLIAM A. HUNTER, '85, with whom she celebrated a Golden Wedding Anniversary in 1938, and who died in 1940. Challenged, also, was the editor's statement that Mrs. Gillilan was a charter member of Kappa Alpha Theta. In a kindly spirit and with the thought only of straightening out the record, Mrs. Hunter stated that she and Mrs. Gillilan had joined the social organization at the same time and during their first year in college. Her sister, Margaret, however, had been a Theta some five years previously, and "even she was not a charter member," the charter having been granted in 1876.

Gone, now, is an old familiar Court Street landmark. The old Foster homestead at 35-39 South Court Street, with the ornate wrought-iron railing around the second-story porch, has been razed to make room for a modern business property. The building was erected 120 years ago, during the administration of President John Quincy Adams, by Isaac Norton, an ancestor of Mrs. S. C. Price (FRANCES NORTON, '91), and her brother, DR. W. H. NORTON, '06, of Mt. Clemens, Mich. In 1858, it was purchased by Franklin E. Foster, father of I. M. FOSTER, '95, former congressman and commissioner of the U. S. Court of Claims, now seriously ill at his home in Washington, D. C. The upper story of the old home was occupied for many years by members of the Foster family, and was only three years ago vacated by one of Mr. Foster's sisters. The first floor has been devoted to business purposes since the Foster purchase in 1858.

Charles F. Cooley, grandson of the late PROF. CHARLES M. COPELAND, and son of MERRILL F. COOLEY, '16, and Mrs. Cooley (NELLE COPELAND, '15.), Warren, has come to Athens as minister for students at the First Methodist Church. He succeeds the Rev. Donald Allen, who left the local church this fall after two years of service to complete his seminary training at the Yale Divinity School. The new student worker attended Kent State University, where he majored in sociology, and later received the degree of Bachelor of Science in Sociology from the University of Oregon. He also has been a student at Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanston, Ill. The grandfather was for many years, 1893-1934, head of the School of Commerce at Ohio University, while the father, a teacher in Warren High School, is well known in state and national school circles.

Carl L. Tewksbury
(See Class of 1911 Notes)

1898

DR. DON D. TULLIS, national president of the Ohio University Alumni Association, who has recently spent four weeks in a Newton, Mass., hospital and a briefer period of recuperation at the home of his son, Dr. James L. Tullis, Newton, has recovered sufficiently from his illness to return to his home in Athens. A former minister in Daytona Beach, Fla., Dr. Tullis was to have participated in the formal rededication ceremonies for Cutler Hall on October 19, but was prevented from doing so by his illness. Although he is retired from the active ministry he continues to write a syndicated column under the title, "Every Day Religion."

CARL D. SHEPPARD, Akron attorney, and one of the most influential members of the State Senate, has been named chairman of a Committee on Libraries, a subdivision of the Ohio Postwar Program Committee. One of the principal objectives of Senator Sheppard's committee is to assist in obtaining passage of legislation which will simplify the organizational set-up of Ohio's libraries and to aid in the problems of financing them.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman C. Davis (FLORENCE CLAYTON, '06) and ELSA JOHNSON, '18, of Washington, D. C., were among the Cutler Hall rededication visitors last month. Mrs. Davis retired last June after 20 years as a teacher in Washington's Eastern High School. Miss Johnson, who was an assistant in Spanish at Ohio University at one time, is also a former teacher in the schools of the nation's capital.

1907

GEORGE W. REEVES, ex, prominent Charleston, W. Va., businessman, recently celebrated his 33rd anniversary as a retail grocer in the West Virginia city. He is a charter member and past president of the Charleston Retail Credit Association and is active in civic affairs of a varied nature. One of his three children is Mrs. Robert H. Boulware (MARY FRANCES REEVES, '36), who is the mother of two of his five grandchildren. Mr. Boulware, national sales manager of Radio Station WSAI, in Cincinnati, is a member of the Class of 1937.

1908

DR. L. B. NICE, head of the department of physiology and pharmacology at the Chicago Medical School, formerly at Ohio State University, was one of the large number of alumni who returned to the campus for the Cutler Hall rededication ceremonies on October 18-19.

1911

CARL L. TEWKSBUARY (see picture) comptroller of the Ft. Wayne National Bank, Ft. Wayne, Ind., recently appeared on the program of a district meeting of the National Office Management Association held in Detroit, Mich. Appearing also on the program was another Ohioan, HELEN GLEASON, '26, director of the University of Michigan Extension Center at Grand Rapids. Mr. Tewksbury went to Ft. Wayne in 1933 from Cleveland, where he was for many years associated with the Union Trust Company. He is at present director of a six-state district of the National Association of Bank Auditors and Comptrollers, and, with representatives of banking institutions in Atlanta, Ga., Jacksonville, Fla., Houston, Texas, and Washington, D. C., appeared as a member of a discussion panel on the program of the National Convention of the N.B.A.C. in Baltimore, Md., late in October. Mr. Tewksbury is a member of other state and national organizations of a professional character, and is active in civic affairs in Ft. Wayne.

ranch near Gardnerville, Nevada, for many years, has recently acquired valuable real estate holdings on the shores of Lake Tahoe, not far away. A reference to one's atlas will disclose that the California-Nevada line runs through the center of this beautiful body of water. Mrs. Johnson owns a golf course and several cottages which are managed by a son, Knox. As soon as building materials are available she expects to erect a large resort hotel. Back on the Gardnerville ranch another son, William, has a string of riding horses which are available to Eastern "dudes" and other visitors. A daughter, Majorie Anne, is married and lives near Lake Tahoe. Mrs. Johnson's husband died in 1931.

Death, resulting from a coronary thrombosis, claimed a Warren business man and husband of an Ohio University woman on Sept. 3, 1947. The deceased, Harry L. Barr, is survived by his widow, the former MARIE LUNTZ, 3-yr., and a daughter, Barbara Jane, aged 19. Engaged in the retail sale of visual and audio-visual aids during recent years, Mr. Barr had for sometime been associated with steel companies in the upper Ohio Valley and the Mahoning Valley as a chemical engineer and supervisory official. He was a national officer of Sigma Pi, a social fraternity, for eight years. Mrs. Barr is now carrying on the Warren business.

WILLIAM S. BUNDY is a state examiner with the Bureau of Inspection and Supervision of Public Offices working out of Columbus. In September he was engaged in auditing the records of the Toledo School District.

Elizabeth Downing, daughter of WALTER A. "TINY" DOWNING, and Mrs. Downing, (RUTH THOMAS, '18), Circleville, was a delegate to the World Conference of Christian Youth at Oslo, Norway, during the past summer. Sailing on June 30 and returning to the States on Sept. 15, Miss Downing was one of eight young Presbyterians chosen from throughout the entire U.S.A. to attend the conference. With other delegates, she enjoyed an extensive tour of Western Europe before returning home.

LEONA GRIFFITH, 2-yr., is the sixth grade teacher and principal of Lowell School in Lorain. She has been a teacher in the Lorain schools since 1922.

EDITH MAY JOHNSTON, a teacher in Portsmouth High School, is also an active member of the Business and Professional Women's Club of her city.

A recent New York Times story, accompanied by a picture, reports that DR. EVERETT M. STOWE, executive secretary of the Committee on Friendly Relations Among Foreign Students and former consultant with the division of Cultural Cooperation of the U. S. State Department, became associate secretary of the World Council of Christian Education on November 1. He was a faculty member and dean of Fukien Christian University in China from 1928 to 1943. Dr. Stowe is the husband of the former LULU SHUMAN, '17.

1920

COL. JOHN PAUL WETHERHOLT, who has recently gone on an inactive duty status with the Army, with Mrs. Wetherholt, the former MARGARET DAILEY, '21x, has opened a crafts shop in Tacoma, Wash. Colonel Wetherholt and his son, ROBERT C. WETHERHOLT, now an Ohio University junior, were both Army ordnance officers and both were stationed at the General Supply Depot in Manilla at one time.

1921

HARRY BLACKSTONE and Mrs. Blackstone (MARGARET EILEEN HOFFER, '24x) of Baltimore, Md., were campus visitors this summer. They were accompanied by a son, the youngest of their five children. Mr. Blackstone holds a responsible position as tax accountant and assessor with the Maryland State Tax Commission.

1922

MARK COWEN, who breaks into these columns rather frequently, has ample excuse for another mention. He has just been elected national president of the U. S. Public Parks and Playgrounds Association, and was director of the organization's national tournament in Indianapolis during the past summer. In his new position he succeeds Dr. Morton Roan of Minneapolis, Minn. Mark is superintendent of the division of recreation in the Department of Parks and Recreation in Indianapolis. He is also doing some part-time teaching in the Indianapolis branch of Indiana University, which offers a degree in recreational direction. He and Mrs. Cowen (EMMA HELSEL, '22) brought their daughter, Helen, to Ohio University this fall where she is enrolled as a freshman.

SUSAN TRIMMER, Toronto, and THOMAS KNOX, Warren, an Ohio University

junior and sophomore, respectively, have recently announced their engagement. Mr. Knox is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. KNOX (NADINE SILBERT, 2-yr.). Holder of a diploma in music, Mrs. Knox is teaching piano in Warren as well as carrying on house-wifely duties at home.

ROBERT W. HAWS and WILLIAM BENNETT SHIMP, '29, A.M. '36, were awarded Doctor of Philosophy degrees by Ohio State University at the conclusion of the summer quarter on August 29. Dr. Haws is a former teacher in the Hamilton schools, but it is not known whether or not he has returned to that city. Dr. Shimp, a former assistant professor of violin at Ohio University, is now at his home in Greenfield, where he is editor of the Journal of Musicology.

Frank E. Goddard, aged 80, prominent

Washington County farmer and father of NELLIE E. GODDARD and DON R. GODDARD, '25, died on October 13 following an illness of influenza. The daughter is living at home, while the son is cashier of the Bartlett Farmers Bank, of which his father was an organizer and director.

1925

The Ph.D. degree was conferred upon BEULAH V. GILLASPIE by Columbia University at graduation ceremonies last June. Miss Gillaspie has been associated for many years with the National Dairy Products Corporation as director of the Sealtest Laboratory Kitchen in New York City.

1926

From SETH W. LEWIS, owner and manager of Hotel Athens, comes the report that Carleton E. "Cotton" Welch, '34, is now mayor of Parkersburg, W. Va. and the youngest chief administrator in the history of the West Virginia city. His Honor, Mayor Welch, is a former member of the Parkersburg city council and was engaged in the real estate business before entering the Navy in 1942.

The new managing director of the Williamson (W. Va.) Chamber of Commerce is WILLIAM F. "DUTCH" TOLBERT. His selection for the position was made by the board of directors from among many applicants for the job. Manager Tolbert has been associated with the Williamson Daily News since soon after graduation, as reporter, sports editor, and for many years as city editor. Following a period of war service he was made managing editor of the Mingo Republican, a Williamson paper. The new chamber official has been active in civic and community affairs in the West Virginia city.

You're right, Mrs. Kier, the emancipation of women took place many years ago. This observation is occasioned by a mild complaint which has recently been lodged with the Alumni Office by a member of the Class of 1928. It reads: "Since coming to California I have been receiving mail addressed to Miss MINNIE L. HANNUM, % J. W. Kier. I don't know who gave you my address, but any one in my home town should know why I am in the care of J. W. Kier. I married him in Barboursville, Ky., July 21, 1939. The way my mail is addressed from O. U. sounds almost like the breath of scandal. Ha! Ha!" Mrs. Kier also revealed in her letter that she and her husband have purchased a ten-acre ranch not far from Escondido, which is 34 miles from San Diego, and that they are enjoying the California sunshine. Proving that there was no ill will on account of the faulty records, she enclosed a contribution to the Ohio University Fund.

Mrs. JEANNETTE BROWN WOODHOUSE, a former instructor in school music at Ohio University, has written a number of songs, four of which have been published in Jr—Language and Arts, a new children's magazine published in Chicago by Progressive Educators, Inc., the editorial committee of which is headed by Dr. Paul Witty of Northwestern University. Others of her songs have been accepted for future publication in this periodical, while Mrs. Woodhouse has been requested to submit some of her songs for a new series of school music textbooks. She reports that her children, Marilyn, 8, and Emile Kay, 6, are her ablest critics, stating that "they usually can predict whether or not my songs will appeal to the other members of the 'Bread and Jelly' set." The song writer's husband, Dr. Clarence A. Woodhouse, is engaged in bacteriological research for the big Du Pont Company in Wilmington, Del.

DR. GUY W. BRUGLER, who left the Army with the rank of lieutenant colonel after serving as executive officer of Army hospitals in Australia, New Guinea, and at Staunton, Va., and who recently has been assistant director of University Hospitals in Cleveland, has assumed the directorship of Children's Hospital in Boston. In Boston he will head a project to develop a $10,000,000 children's medical center, which is expected to be the largest in the world, having as its basic elements five present institutions for the care of children. The 78-year-old Children's Hospital is an affiliate of the Harvard Medical School. Director Brugler graduated from the Western Reserve University Medical School, interned at Emory University Hospital, Atlanta, Ga., and subsequently spent three years at University Hospital in Baltimore. He became assistant director of the Cleveland hospitals in 1939. Dr. Brugler is a member of the special medical advisory group to the Veterans Administration, and a member of the American College of Hospital Administrators.

GREGORY M. BATTISTONE (see picture), an instructor in Western High School, Detroit, Mich., has been reelected state membership chairman by the executive committee of the National Business Teachers Association, an organization devoted to better cooperation between business teachers and the business world. Under Chairman Battistone's leadership last year Michigan ranked second in the nation in membership in N.B.T.A. He has been a teacher in the Detroit school continuously since graduation from Ohio University.

DR. JOHN A. NOON, ex, was appointed head of the sociology department at Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pa., this fall. Dr. Noon went to his new position from the U. S. State Department, where he was acting chief of the Africa Branch, Division of Intelligence Research for Near East-Africa. Before joining the State Department he was a member of the International Labor Office staff. From 1943 to 1946 Dr. Noon held the post of research associate in the University of Pennsylvania Museum. He taught North African language courses and also wrote the monograph, "Labor Problems of Africa," which sociologists consider to be the authoritative statement on that subject. His publications also include a series of studies of the North American Indian. The Wilson College man received both the B.S. and the Ph.D. degrees from the University of Pennsylvania and did additional graduate work at Columbia University.

LT. RALPH W. FLECK has returned to his station in Berlin after a 30-day leave with his parents in Athens. Lieutenant Fleck is with the Fiscal Branch of the Berlin Command and has served in the E.T.O. for three years. He expects to spend another year overseas, after which he plans to return to his position with the Maritime Commission in Washington, D. C.

DR. PHIL S. SHURRAGER, who acquired an A.M. degree at Ohio University in 1932 after first securing a Bachelor of Science degree from Muskingum College, is now chairman of the department of psychology and education of the Illinois Institute of Technology in Chicago. His Ph.D. degree was awarded in 1939 by the University of Illinois.

Edward Worstall, managing editor of the Steubenville Herald-Star and associated with the paper since 1905, died in a Steubenville hospital late this summer. He was the father of MARY ELINOR WORSTALL, 2-yr., Steubenville teacher.

Mrs. Robert E. Hall (HELEN BATES), a resident of Columbus, is teaching in the high school at Groveport. Mrs. Hall's husband, who was a classmate at Ohio University, was killed in an automobile accident in 1940.

KENNETH E. DUNN has been named director of athletic publicity at Duquesne University in Pittsburgh. He will also teach news-writing. An assistant in the News Bureau at Ohio University, 1934-1936, Ken was engaged in work in accountancy in Pittsburgh before assuming his present position.

1935

DR. ROBERT S. SRIGLEY, chief surgeon at Hardy General Hospital, Ardmore, Okla., was elected to a fellowship in the American College of Surgeons this summer and was officially recognized at the annual convention of the A.C.S. in New York City in September. Dr. Srigley is a graduate of the Harvard Medical School and completed a course in neurosurgery at the University of Pennsylvania. He has engaged in nerve and brain surgery at several leading civilian and Army centers in the U. S.

CAPT. JAMES R. GILMORE, whose rapid rise with Pan American World Airways has been reported in past issues of The Alumnus, has received another recognition from his organization, this time an appointment as assistant chief pilot in charge of navigation. Captain Gilmore will be in charge of the navigation department of the Atlantic sector of the international airline the operations of which extend to Europe, Africa, the Near East, and to India. He joined Pan American at Baltimore in 1939 after three years as a Navy pilot. In 1942, he was transferred to the line's Miami, Fla. headquarters from which he flew as a captain on a South American run. The following year he returned to the Atlantic division. In August of this year Captain Gilmore commanded the Clipper flight which inaugurated Pan American's non-stop service to London.

Because of ill health, the wife of MORRIS RABIN was forced to leave Cleveland and take up residence in California. Taking a leave of absence from his work on the staff of the Cleveland News, Morry went out to the West Coast to visit the "missus" and liked things so well that he decided to make the move a permanent one. He has accepted a position as editor of two weekly newspapers, the Rialto Record and the Bloomington News, which are published at Rialto, about 16 miles from Ontario, Calif., where the Rabins have established themselves. He has also purchased an interest in the news plant, which prints 13 other weeklies. Now a California booster, Editor Rabin writes that "we are living on a four-acre farm (they call it a ranch out here) with an orange grove and chickens." Closing his letter on a cordial note, he said, "No more winters and cold for Rabin. Look me up when you get out this way and I'll buy the drinks."

JOSEPH L. PAVIA was named football coach at Lincoln High School, Cleveland, to succeed Glenn Fraser, who resigned to become head football coach at Ohio Wesleyan. Pavia had been assistant coach at Lincoln since 1939.

RUTH McCULLOUGH (see picture), a former Army nurse who served with the famous Lakeside Unit in Australia and New Guinea, has been named "Ideal Nurse" and Cleveland's modern Florence Nightingale in an "Ideal Nurse Contest" sponsored by the Cleveland Press. The distinction also carried with it a prize of $100. Miss McCullough, a public health nurse, is now assistant supervisor and instructor at Branch 8 of the Visiting Nurse Association. She received the degree of Master of Nursing at the Frances Payne Bolton School of Nursing in 1940. She is the daughter of C. J. McCULLOUGH, '22, and Mrs. McCullough, the Plains, and a sister of JOE T. McCULLOUGH, '31. Miss McCullough spent a month this summer with her brother in Medellin, Colombia, South America, where the latter is director of a school for Colombians which is sponsored by the U. S. Government as one of its good neighbor projects.

Since graduation from the University of Cincinnati Law School last February and passage of the Ohio Bar examination in March, CARL S. MALLOW, JR. has been associated with Toulmin & Toulmin, Dayton one of the country's outstanding patent law firms. The new Dayton attorney, husband of the former GENEVIEVE PAIS, '39, and brother of Mrs. Richard L. Krall (JEAN MALLOW, '46), Los Angeles, Calif., served in the Judge Advocate General's Department in the Southwest Pacific during the war.

ROBERT W. "FUZZY" WEST, an Army Air Corps officer who was reported missing in action over France early in 1945 and later turned out to be a prisoner of the Germans, subsequently left the army to accept a position with American Airlines in Dallas, Texas. He has now returned to military service, and at the time of a recent visit in Athens with PROF. W. H. FENZEL, '18, was awaiting assignment orders. He was accompanied on his Athens visit by his wife and daughter, Carolyn Ann.

EDWARD E. CURTIS, an Ohio University Phi Beta, is a psychologist with the Vocational Guidance Bureau in Cleveland. Before serving overseas with his Uncle Sammy's forces, Psychologist Curtis was associated with the personnel department of the Graphite Bronz Co., a Cleveland concern. He married MILDRED REED, '39, in 1940.

At Mitchell, S. D., this summer two Ohio University officials, WILLIAM ROBERSON, cashier in the Treasurers Office, and Ralph M. Smeck, instructor in the University Flying School, with their wives, were surprised and pleased to run into four Ohio University alumni: DANIEL N. GRIGG, '42; PAULINE "POLLY" GRIGG, '46; CHARLES H. "CHUCK" CRAWFORD, III, '47; and JOHN SILK, O. U. senior. All four were employed at the "Corn Palace," a souvenir and curio shop well known throughout the West. The Corn Palace, owned by the parents of Dan and Polly Grigg and where big-name bands frequently play for dance engagements, gets its name from the fact that it is decorated on the exterior with corn husks, and on the interior with murals made of grains of corn.

WILLIAM PARKER WALKER, who graduated from the University of Cincinnati Law School and passed the State Bar Examination prior to engaging in three years of military service, has opened an office in Athens for the practice of law. Attorney Walker, who is married and the father of a daughter, aged 6, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Walker (HATTIE CARPENTER, '02, 2-yr.), Athens, and a brother of MARY LOUISE WALKER, '34, Columbus. The young Athenian was recently the subject of congratulations from fellow barristers upon a victory in his first local courtroom appearance. He secured for his client a directed verdict of innocent. Directed verdicts in criminal trials are so rare that the judge granting it could remember but one in his 16 years on the bench.

Among the new additions to the Marietta College faculty this fall are two men whose wives hold degrees from Ohio University. Dr. Robert P. Fischer, assistant professor of psychology, is the husband of the former JUNE FULTZ, while Leslie E. Blough, instructor in chemistry, is the husband of the former BERNICE KELLER, '28. Dr. Fischer has taught at the University of Illinois, Birmingham-Southern College, and at the University of Florida. Mr. Blough came to Marietta from the Adventure School, Summerville, S. C., where he was business manager and instructor in chemistry.

June L. Hill
(See Class of 1945 Notes)

1940

DONALD A. FRASER is chairman of the board of directors of the The Fraser Company, Inc., in Hollywood, Calif. The firm promotes the sale and distribution of a number of well-known products over a nationwide area, and has recently been incorporated under California laws. Mr. Fraser attended the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration after graduation from Ohio University and was then called into the Army. He was attached to an army headquarters in Chicago where he engaged in cost analysis work in connection with the renegotiation of war contracts and the recapture of excess profits.

MARIE M. LOESCH is a secretary in the headquarters office of the Boy Scouts in Mansfield. During the war she was clerk of Local Board No. 1, Richland County.

Selective Service, and her present boss is a former member of this board. Miss Loesch is a sister of RICHARD L. LOESCH, '35, who is with the General Electric Co. in Syracuse, N. Y.

THE REV. THOMAS B. MAURER is minister of the Community Church in Mariemont, a suburb of Cincinnati. He occupied the pulpit of the Grace Methodist Church in Dayton last year and has previously held a pastorate at Arcanum. He is a graduate of the Boston University School of Theology.

As Army Command Librarian at Weisbaden, Germany, JEAN E. LYONS, is in charge of 15 graduate librarians who service the 75 libraries for all of the Army Air Forces in Europe. This is her third year in the position. Before going overseas she was in charge of the library at Marana Air Field, Tucson, Ariz. During a month's trip for the Air Transport Command last spring Miss Lyons was flown to Paris, Tripoli, Rome (where she visited St. Peter's on Easter morning), Cairo (with a side trip to the Pyramids), and Saudi Arabia, where she set up a new library. In June she spent a six-day holiday in Czechoslovakia, most of the time at the Grand Hotel Pupp in Prague. The picture of Miss Lyons reproduced on page 16 was taken in her library at Tucson, Ariz. The young lady is the daughter of MRS. GRACE FERGUSON LYONS, '29, of Freemont, a teacher in the high school there.

STEPHEN H. FULLER, who received a master's degree from the Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration last February and who served as an instructor in economics at Ohio University during the second semester of the past year, has returned to the eastern school where he is now research assistant to Dr. Benjamin M. Selekman, Kirstein Professor of Labor Relations.

FRANK C. BAUMHOLTZ, stellar outfielder for the Cincinnati Reds this year, and regarded by many as the outstanding rookie of the year in professional baseball circles, has indicated that he will forego participation in professional basketball this winter. It is believed that the strain of last winter's efforts on the hardwood court as a member of the Cleveland Rebels took a definite physical toll of the popular Frankie and resulted in a loss of weight during the baseball season.

The appointment of ARTHUR W. MYERS as executive secretary of the Columbus Philharmonic Orchestra Association has just been announced. A journalism graduate, he has been associated with the engineering department of the Curtiss-Wright Corp. in Columbus, and was for three years a finance officer with the Army Air Forces in England, France, and Belgium.

DONALD N. SCRANTON is now a junior executive in the Controllers Division of Stein Brothers big department store in New York City. His wife, who was CAROL JAMES, '43, writes that her brother, who has just completed a year of study at Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute with an excellent scholastic record, is hoping to enroll in Ohio University soon.

ROBERT H. GREENWOOD was one of the relatively few applicants who were accepted for admission to the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration this fall, where he is now working on an M.B.A. degree. A former member of the cost accounting staff of the Carborundum Co. in Niagara Falls, N. Y., Bob and Mrs. Greenwood (RUTH NICKERSON, '42), and their boys, Michael, aged four years, and Larry, aged seven months, are now living in the Cambridge area.

HAROLD E. SAUER, M.S., '45, assistant dean of men at Ohio University for 2½ years, now holds a similar position at Kent State University, one of Ohio's five tax-supported institutions of higher learning. Before engaging in personnel work at his alma mater he was a teacher in Athens High School. Mr. Sauer has been replaced on the Ohio University staff by CHARLES W. BULLARD, '40, husband of MRS. TRUDIE KISSNER BULLARD, '44, who is now a graduate assistant in English at Ohio University.

(See Class of 1945 Notice)

Mrs. Dan G. Kadrovach (MARY E. ALTER) will sail for Japan early in November to join her husband, Captain Kadrovach, who is a member of the General Headquarters staff in Tokyo. She expects to remain in Japan for about a year and a half. Mrs. Kadrovach is a graduate of the Philadelphia School for Occupational Therapy and served on the O.T. staff at Moore General Hospital, Swannanoa, N. C. for some 18 months.

JOHN A. WINFIELD (see picture) was recently granted his C.P.A. certificate by the Michigan State Board of Accountancy after having passed, at the first sitting, the examination prescribed by the American Institute of Accountants. Mr. Winfield, who resides in Detroit, Mich., with his wife, the former VIRGINIA CEKUTA, '43, has been employed since 1944 as a public accountant with the firm of Arthur Andersen & Company.

JEANNETTE A. MASILIONIS, M.S., '45, is in her second year as an instructor in health and physical education at the University of Oregon, Eugene, Ore. She was an instructor in Penn Hall Junior College, Chambersburg, Pa., during the year preceding her move to the West Coast. Her thesis for the graduate degree was based upon work done in the Youth Center in Athens.

JAMES McCLELLAN ROBINSON received a degree in medicine at the Western Reserve University School of Medicine last June and is now interning in New York City's famed Bellevue Hospital. At WRU he was elected to Alpha Omega Alpha, honorary medical fraternity. Dr. Robinson is a brother of Mrs. Fred Picard (RUTH ANN ROBINSON, '39) whose husband is assistant professor of economics at Ohio University.

The parents of LT. THOMAS S. SHARP, ex, McArthur, Ohio University Gold Star man who was shot down over Hungary while piloting a P-51 Mustang in the "shuttle" missions to Russia in July, 1944, have recently been notified by the War Department that their son's body has been recovered in Hungary and interred in a U. S. Military cemetery near Metz, France. Hungary was in German hands, of course, at the time the American flyer was reported as missing, but was later occupied by Russian forces which have proved most uncooperative in their relations with the Graves Registration units of the U. S. Army.

JUNE L. HILL (see picture) is well embarked upon her second year as assistant medical illustrator at the Louisiana State University School of Medicine in New Orleans. Her work, she reports, consists chiefly of the preparation of drawings and photographs for publication in various medical journals and the rendering of charts and other illustrations for teaching and exhibit purposes.

Under the provision that permits Ohio University students to transfer to professional schools at the end of their third year and, upon the satisfactory completion of one year of work in the new school, to receive a degree from Ohio University, DR. RAYMOND J. CURCIO (see picture) left the local campus in January of 1944 and enrolled as a dental student at the University of Pennsylvania. Last June three and a half years and one world war later, he received his D.D.S. degree and has accepted an assistant professorship there for the current year. A member of Zeta Psi Phi dental fraternity, Dr. Curcio roomed with WALTER J. JONES, '44, who is now a senior in dentistry at the Pennsylvania school.

RUTH E. COFFMAN, A.M., '46, instructor in speech at the University of Alabama, was a representative of the state of Ohio at the World Conference of Christian Youth during a 10-day conference in Oslo, Norway, this summer. There were 1,200 delegates representing 70 countries at the conference. In her first ride in an airplane, Miss Coffman flew directly from LaGuardia Field, N. Y. to Oslo. Following the conference she visited Sweden, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, France, and England. In England she was the guest of youth groups in London, Birmingham, and Coventry. A resident of Marietta, Ohio, Miss Coffman is in her second year as a teacher in the southern school.

J. ROBERT ATTERHOLT is head of the Robert Atterholt Insurance Agency in Ashland, an agency writing policies for three well-known companies. Mrs. Atterholt (VIRGINIA FAIRMAN, '43, 2-yr.) is teaching in the elementary schools in Ashland.

RALPH J. BITZER is an associate radio consulting engineer with Fred O. Grimwood & Company Inc. in St. Louis, Mo.

esville; JEANNE REINHARDT, Huddington, W. Va.; STEPHANIE L. WALSH, Falls Church, Va.; JOHN W. REED, Athens; and ROBERT C. BIRD, Athens.

RALPH V. EXLINE (see picture), who graduated last June with Phi Beta Kappa honors, has been retained by his alma mater as assistant to the dean of the University College. In this capacity he will aid in the interviewing and counseling of the 1,968 students currently enrolled in this basic college of the university organization. The assistant dean is a World War veteran and the husband of the former FRANCES HOWARD, '44, who is employed in the Ohio University registrar's office.

JOE S. DILLEY entered the University of Michigan this fall to pursue work on a master's degree in music. On the Ohio campus he was a member of the University Symphony Orchestra and of Phi Mu Alpha, honorary music fraternity. He is a son of Dr. and Mrs. F. B. Dilley, Athens, the former, director of admissions at Ohio University.

Holiday Dances Planned By Two Alumni Chapters

Christmas dances are being planned by alumni groups in Cleveland and New York City. Ohio University students home for the holidays are, as usual, invited to join the alumni in the fun of these festive occasions.

Out to break last year's record of over 1,000 grads and undergrads at their holiday dance, the Cleveland Bobcat Club has booked Vince Pattie and his orchestra for an informal Christmas Dance to be held at Hotel Carter on Tuesday night, December 23. Tickets are $3.50 per couple.

Members of the club, with their telephone numbers, who can be contacted for tickets are: Chet Gober, HE 5203; W. R. Merkel, PR 7036; George M. Brown, CH 5695; Sherman Peters, CE 0640; and Ray Chenek, MA 2430.

Although a new venture in New York City, the interest already expressed by a large number of alumni and students in the metropolitan area and the enthusiasm of the committee insure a successful initiation of a holiday dance tradition.

The New York dance is scheduled for Saturday night, December 27, at a hotel yet to be selected. Tickets will be $2.50 per person.

Contacts for tickets may be made with Jesse Zousmer, Apt. 5 B, 98-37 65th Ave., Forest Hills, N. Y.; Richard O. Linke, Apt. 4 C, 68-37 108th St., Forest Hills, N. Y.; Marjorie Wisse, 129 Henry St., Hasbrouck Heights, N. J.; or Melvin Weinstein, 803 Friel Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Deaths

DWIGHT EMIL WILLIAMS

DWIGHT E. WILLIAMS, '22, died Oct. 5, 1947, as the result of a heart attack suffered in Fort Smith, Ark.

Mr. Williams, who, with his family, resided in Jackson, Miss., was the southern representative of Duofold, Inc., of Mohawk, N. Y., men's clothing manufacturers, and was on a business trip at the time of his death.

Purchasing agent and sales office manager of the Ray-Glo Corporation, an Athens stove manufacturing concern, for several years after graduation, he became the representative of the New York company in 1937. He had been a resident of Mississippi since 1931.

Mr. Williams is survived by his wife, the former OPAL J. COOLEY, '23; two daughters, June and Mrs. Robert R. Rutledge, Jr., and a son, Jackie, Mrs. Williams and the children will continue to live in Jackson.

Other survivors include a sister, Mrs. Bruce Lineburg (WINIFRED WILLIAMS, '11, 2-yr.), Lake Forest, Ill., and a brother, CLARK E. WILLIAMS, '21, Athens. The widow is a sister of Mrs. A. J. Richardson (JENNIE MAE COOLEY, '24, West McHenry, Ill.

ALFRED JOSEPH NEWELL

A traffic accident early in July claimed the life of ALFRED J. NEWELL, '34, in Granby, Mass., where he had been a resident for several years. Mr. Newell was associated with the personnel department of the White & Wyckoff Co., manufacturers of high-grade stationery and writing papers.

Mr. Newell married MARY LOUISE FISKE, '33 2-yr., Chauncey, on the day of his graduation in 1934. He is survived by Mrs. Newell and two children, Nancy and Douglas, age 2 and 8, respectively.

Mrs. Newell's sister, RUTH FISKE, '22, a Gallipolis teacher, had arrived in Granby, a suburb of Holyoke, Mass., for a visit the day before her brother-in-law was killed.

ADELAIDE COE SKINNER

MRS. ADELAIDE COE SKINNER, '85, Ph.M. '88, widow of the late DR. ERNEST BROWN SKINNER, '88, died at her home in Madison, Wisc., Sept. 17, 1947, following a long illness. She was 84 years of age.

Mrs. Skinner, a native of Vinton County, and Dr. Skinner were married in 1888 shortly after the latter's graduation from Ohio University. Dr. Skinner, a member of the University of Wisconsin faculty for 42 years, was a nationally-known mathematician. His death occurred in 1935.

CHARLES COLLINS SMITH

CHARLES C. SMITH, '00, 2-yr., former City of Cleveland illuminating engineer, died Feb. 1, 1947.

JACOB ROLAND COLLINS

DR. JACOB R. COLLINS, '12 (see picture), age 55, Ithaca, N. Y., died Sept. 16, 1947, after a year's illness. He had been a member of the physics department at Cornell University since 1918 and was actively engaged in research in the fields of infra-red spectroscopy and the optical properties of metals, subjects on which he had published numerous scientific papers.

A native of Byesville, Ohio, Dr. Collins received the B.S. degree from Ohio University in 1912, the M.S. at Purdue in 1914, and his Ph.D. at Cornell in 1921. He joined the Cornell faculty after four years of teaching at Purdue.

The Cornell man was a member of Phi Kappa Phi and Sigma Xi, honorary scientific fraternities, and was affiliated with the Association of Physics Teachers, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and the American Physical Society.

Dr. Collins is survived by his wife and two brothers. A son, Richard Kenneth, preceded the father in death.

JAMES ADDISON PERSON

JAMES A. PERSON, '44 and '47, Athens, was killed on July 20, 1947, when the Taylorcraft plane which he was piloting crashed near Toledo following his failure to pull out of a low-banked turn over the home of a companion and brother-in-law, Paul N. Price, who was also killed in the accident. The Ohioian was an employee of the McBee Company of Athens.

Witnesses said the small plane was banking to the left with its engine throttled at about 200 feet when the crash occurred. Mr. Price's wife, who had been watching the plane from the porch of her home, ran across the street to the plane and attempted to pull her husband from the wreckage. The wife of the other victim, Mrs. Forrest Price Person, also witnessed the crash.

Mr. Person is survived by his wife, a graduate nurse, and two children, Susan, 4, and Barbara, 3.
